Best four softball teams in Europe will fight for medals tonight

Women's Softball European Championship is in its final phase. The best four teams were determined in the last games of the top-six when the Netherlands beat Greece (8:1), and Italy won their game with Russia (3:0).

The Czech Republic and Great Britain are the remaining teams of the top four.

The Czech Republic secured its spot in the top four in yesterday's late-night game against Greece and in a previous 10-inning game against Russia.

Great Britain played a tight game (3:1) with Russia, but then made it clearly to the top four through Russia (10:4), who had to play two consequent games.

Tonight the first semifinal game will be played between Italy and the Netherlands at 20:45.

The Czech Republic and Great Britain are no. 3 and 4 teams, so they will play for a spot in the second semifinal, where the winning team will be later joined by the loser of the first semifinal.
